

26TH November 2024

Hello Gogsters!

Before I begin this week's blog, I've been told off for not providing the link to the GOG (Guild of Games) website... so here it is – www.guildofgames.co.uk. (all major payment cards accepted!) *maybe now my blog will appear on their website along with a link to www.foersreborns.net! (kidding guys!)

So, me and my Reborn Aiden arrived at the shop on Tuesday and was greeted by Chris who opened the door whilst on the phone. (multi-tasking skills coming through! – slight mishap re my foot – but hey... I have another one Chris!) Met Michael again (the other website tech guy)

And was welcomed by a girl behind the counter (will get her name one day! But being the gentleman that I am, leave out asking for her number!) eventually properly welcomed by Chris after his phone conversation, apparently not sorry for the mishap earlier, but wouldn't let me leave the shop as it was my turn to buy the coffee! (he bought them in the end though – so, as it's nearly Christmas I'll let him off!)

For regular readers of this GOG blog you will know about why GOG exists and all about the fun we have with another regular Trish (aka Cuddle Monster/Proofreader/Hiking Lady) was out in town with Andy (another regular as well as important shop man) but as soon as she enters the door she's into 'Cuddle Monster' mode... (wait till summer... I guarantee I have a Reborn she won't be so keen to cuddle!)

LINKS

Guild of Games – www.guildofgames.co.uk

Foers Reborns – www.foersreborns.net

Until next blog update.

Tim.